PROBLEM OF BRITISH PICTURES

Shortage Feared During Next Nine Months

A new problem is facing the already problem-ridden British film industry, states the "Morning Post". It is the likelihood of a serious dearth of British pictures during the next nine months, and possibly longer. Such a shortage will mean that the present quota law which the Government hopes to increase gradually, cannot possibly be fulfilled.

This situation has arisen as an offshoot of the crisis which began last January. Pending reorganization of the industry, either from within or by the Government, credit for producers wanting to make new films has almost ceased to exist. Financiers, insurance companies, and banks have, generally speaking, been cautious about lending any more money till the future development of the industry has become more certain.

Resort to "Quickies"

The effect of this check will mean that soon it will be impossible for exhibitors to hire the necessary 20 per cent. footage of British pictures for show in their cinemas. Such a situation might have an injuriously weakening effect on the start of any new legislation or reorganization.

If exhibitors are unable to hire presentable British films they will either have to break the law by falling short of the quota or subsidize their programmes with such "quickies" as are available. "Quickies" are those films made, mainly by foreign-owned companies producing films in England, at a minimum of time and expense for quota purposes. The presentation of too many "quickies" and the dearth of more ambitious, bona-fide British films would go far to destroying such prestige as has been gained by our studios in the last two years.

The summer months are the most important for the British trade. Lacking the climatic advantages of Hollywood, full use must be made of the longer and better lighting conditions for shooting outside scenes, if only for economic reasons. If the present state of indecision continues till the end of the summer the best months of the year will virtually be wasted. Stocks available for exhibitors will be lower during next winter and spring than they have been for the last four years.

BRITISH AIRCRAFTS' NEW ALLOYS

Stronger and Lighter Than Aluminium

British scientists in the Metallurgy Department of the National Physical Laboratory at Teddington have developed two important new series of light alloys of magnesium, which will be of great importance in the production of aircraft.

Magnesium alloys are lighter than those of aluminium, but hitherto have lacked their strength. This has been the main obstacle to their greater use.

The report states that one of the new series of alloys containing magnesium, with small amounts of aluminium, silver and other metals, has greatly increased strength at ordinary temperatures, and is considerably lighter than good aluminium alloys. The second series, containing cerium—a rare metallic element—and small proportions of other metals, retain their strength at high temperatures better than the light alloys previously in use.

Eliminating Noise

Children would be fascinated by some of the devices used in the Physics Department for investigating noise problems. One of these is a tiny windmill, each sail of which is tipped with a "boot." As the sail revolves the "boots" deliver a succession of blows on a floor. The noise represents that of a person walking in an upstairs flat.

By substituting for the ordinary floor an insulated floor resting on rubber supports it was found that the sound of footsteps could be almost eliminated.

One of the most highly sensitive instruments made by the laboratory this year is a microphone-amplifier equipment, with which it is possible to detect the presence of destructive insects in timber.

It has even been found possible to distinguish between different kinds of insects or larvæ, by noting the differences in the sounds made by them, though the insects may be far below the surface of the timber.

BIG SCHEME FOR WEMBLEY

Making Room for 40,000 More Spectators

It is planned to increase the accommodation at Wembley Stadium by nearly half so that there will be room for 40,000 more spectators at next year's F. A. Cup Final, and at the England v. Scotland match which is also due to be played there.

Mr. A. Brook Hirst, a member of the Football League Management Committee and Final Tie Committee, disclosed at the annual meeting of the Football League in London recently that negotiations had been proceeding with the Wembley authorities. The suggestion was for additional terracing, supported on pillars, behind each goal, capable of providing for 32,000 to 36,000 spectators and also room for an extra 4,500 alongside the touchlines.

The alterations would cost approximately £60,000 and, continued Mr. Brook Hirst, the burden would fall on the Football Association. The F. A. needed an assurance that they would be recouped over a period of years for such an expenditure.

One of their conditions was that their lease of the Stadium be extended from seven years to fourteen. It was also necessary that Cup finalists of the future should not seek an increased share of Cup Final proceeds. The clubs agreed not to ask for an increase—the share of the finalists is usually about £5,500—and Mr. Brook Hirst thereupon said he would put the matter before the Finance Committee of the F. A. later.

The present accommodation at Wembley is approximately 93,000. Hampden Park, the venue of the Scottish Cup Final holds 150,000.

CONSCRIPTION BEGINS IN NANKING

Hopes for 40,000,000 Men in Country-wide Training

NANKING GOVERNMENT'S STATEMENT

Nanking, June 30.

Able-bodied male citizens here between the age of 20 and 25 are being drafted for military service as part of a nation-wide conscription programme which, it is hoped, will eventually have 40,000,000 able-bodied persons under military training in this country.

While no definite figures can be obtained at the present moment, city authorities estimate that there are 30,000 men in Nanking between the ages of 20 and 25, but only 10,000 men will be included in the first draft. The city government has issued a lengthy statement explaining to the public the "necessity and advantages" of conscription and giving the full text of the conscription law.

Foreign countries, it says, maintain comparatively small standing armies, thus keeping down their annual military expenditure to a minimum, but, because of their conscription programme, they are able to organize immediately millions of fighting men to defend their countries in times of national crisis.

After dwelling on the disadvantages of a mercenary army, the statement emphasizes that conscription was always enforced in China by ancient dynasties.

With 40,000,000 able-bodied citizens having gone through full army training, the statement proceeds, China will be ready to defend her rights in the event of foreign aggression.

Under the conscription law, all able-bodied persons between the age of 18 and 45 will have to undergo military service. They will be divided into four groups, according to their ages, namely, 18 to 20; 20 to 25; 25 to 40; and 40 to 45.—Reuter.

HUGE JAMBOREE IN U.S. OPENS

30,000 Scouts Gather in Washington

Washington, June 29.

The largest Boy Scout Jamboree ever held in America opened here to-day with the arrival of 30,000 scouts and a further 70,000 friends and relations who had come to see the display.

The "Boy Scout City" covers a site of 400 acres along the banks of the Potomac River. It consists of 10,000 tents, and boasts a public utility system of remarkable size, including eight miles of specially-laid water conduits, providing 1,000,000 gallons daily, 714 kitchens and 250 cooks, 24 field hospitals, four ambulances and 100 doctors, an electric light system, four miles of sewers, 1,500 shower baths, 100 telephone connections, 25 branch post offices, a daily newspaper published and printed in the camp, and an arena seating 30,000 people. The Jamboree will last until July 8 and is expected to attract about 1,000,000 visitors to Washington.

The Scouts will be reviewed by President Roosevelt and will be entertained by him to a garden party in the White House grounds.

The Scout authorities are proud of the way in which they solved the washing-up problem. Instead of hiring upwards of 10,000 plates, they have bought 2,487,742 paper plates, and claim they have calculated the supply so accurately that not one will be wasted.—Reuter.

OBITUARY

Mr. Frank Vanderlip

New York, June 29.

Mr. Frank Arthur Vanderlip, a towering figure of American commercial and banking interests for many years, died in hospital here to-day. He became ill in California a year ago. He was 72 years old.

A native of Aurora, Ill., he was left as the virtual support of his entire family when still a youth, following the death of his father. He started work in a machine shop, but took lessons in draughtmanship and earned enough money later by tutoring to take himself to the University of Illinois.

Drifting into newspaper work, he later became head of Scudder's Investigation Agency in Chicago but returned to journalism as financial editor of the "Chicago Tribune."

He came to the attention of Mr. Lyman J. Gage, financier, and in March 1897 when Mr. Gage was appointed Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Vanderlip became his secretary but three months later was made Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

During the Spanish-American War he floated a $200,000,000 loan by popular subscription. His handling of the war loan attracted the attention of the nation's leading financiers, and Mr. James A.
